About

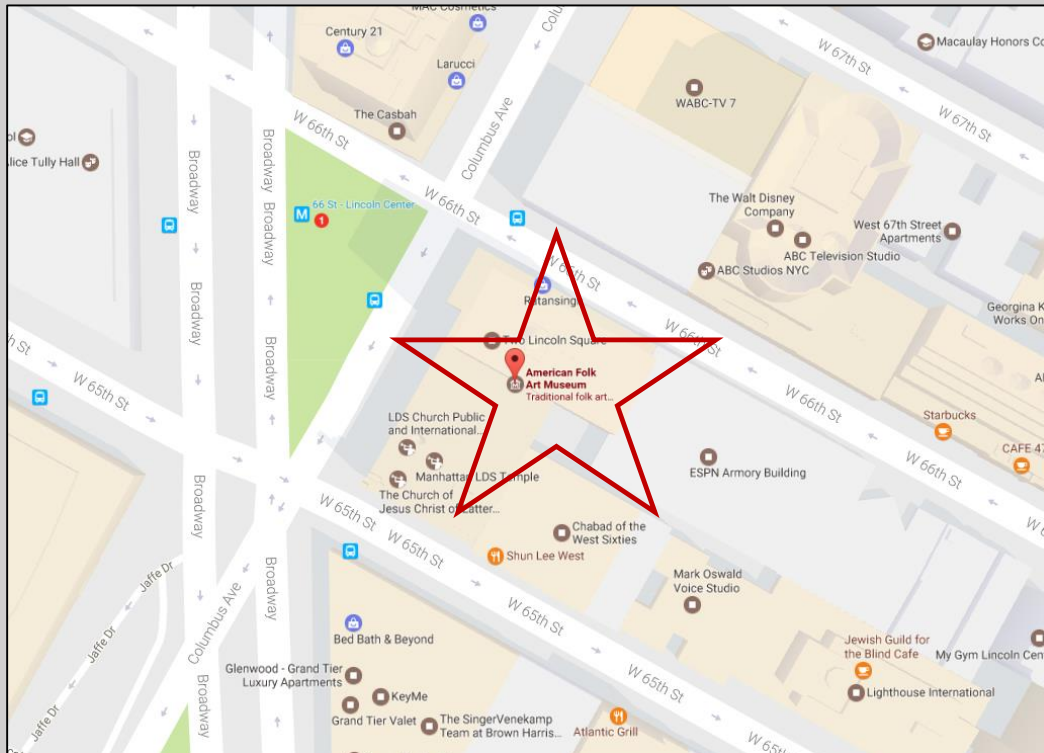

The American Folk Art Museum is the premier institution devoted to the creative expressions of self-taught artists, past and present.

Since 1961 the American Folk Art Museum has been shaping the understanding of art by the self-taught through its exhibitions, publications, and educational programs. As a center of scholarship and by showcasing the creativity of individuals whose singular talents have been refined through experience rather than formal artistic training, the museum considers the historical, social, and artistic context of American culture. Its collection includes more than eight-thousand artworks dating from the eighteenth century to the present, from compelling portraits and dazzling quilts to powerful works in a variety of mediums by living self-taught artists.

About

One of the museum's finest qualities is its ease of access. Situated in the heart of Lincoln Center, it is near a number of subway stations, in close proximity to many hotels and cultural attractions, and within walking distance of plenty of fine dining establishments. Your traveling guests will surely enjoy being in the area!
